MIKE APPEL

Your world is cloudy

Blue skies turned to gray
Raindrops are fallin' but why stop and call it a day
There'll be no stormy weather as long as you're with me

Our love's so together girl
I love you, you can depend on me
I'll be your umbrella man
Shower you with all my love umbrella man
Shelter you in my lovin' arms umbrella man

Heaven help me child you know I love you
Love you, love you oh I love you.

Too many nights of love have come and gone
That's all behind us girl
I know we can get it on
Well I want your love to be always close at hand
You're heaven sent to me
We can make it girl
I know we can
I'll be your umbrella man.

Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo
Ooo

Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo
She came with the rain
A scarlet ribbon in her hair
I never even knew her name
She just slipped away from me
To who knows where

And if it weren't for the rain
She might still be there
Rainmaker does she have to be free
I guess you know she took the best part of me
Rainmaker I wait endlessly
If there's a way maker'er come back to me

Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo
Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo Ooo
Yes I know now more than me she loved the rain
She loved the rain
If there's a way maker'er come back to me

Love was only yesterday
And now tomorrow waits in rain
And now tomorrow waits in vain
She never promised me she'd stay
So a stranger to my love
She will remain
And I know now more than me
She loved the rain

SHE'D RATHER HAVE THE RAIN

TERRY CASHMAN
T.P. WEST

Can't get her out of my mind
I see her face wherever I go
She didn't say it but I know she doesn't love me
I thought that I was king
She didn't want to play my game

If I had the sun to give her in the morning
She'd rather have the rain
Than anything that you care to name
She'd rather have the rain.

Today I have to realize that every dream just can't come true
I know there's nothing I can do to make her want me
I could take the sun from heaven
Tie it to a silver chain
Bring it so it shines upon her through the morning
She'd rather have the rain than anything I could give her
I'd give her anything that you care to name
She'd rather have the rain.

When you need somebody
You want to give her everything
And it hurts when she doesn't hear the song that you sing
She'd rather have the rain.

TO BE LOVERS

MARK CHARRON

Like a summer wind in the fall
Like a color without a paper doll
This is what it's like to be lovers

To be lovers when you're not in love
Like a drift of snow falling in June
Like a November night.

Without an autumn moon
This is what it's like to be lovers
A sad oak tree whose branches will not grow
A beautiful valley filled with sand
This is what it's like to be lovers
To be lovers when you're not in love.

TWINKLES TINKLES AND WRINKLES

Observant

Ma Sung was a brilliant statesman during the Wang Dynasty. He was noted for his ability to observe even the smallest detail. And as a child he showed evidence of this gift. His father ran a small hotel on the route to the capital. And one evening, Liu Chen, the leading poet of the time came there. He would always recite his latest creation to those who were willing to listen. Alas, he did have one failing. At times he drank more than he really could take.

"On this particular evening, he had imbibed more than his capacity. Ma Sung's father spoke to his son.

"Guide our esteemed poet to his room and see he gets into his bed."

The boy followed orders and then went back to help his father clean the tables after the guests had left. He himself retired for he had to be up at sunrise. And in the morning he heard a scream of agony. It came from the bedroom of Liu Chen. So Ma Sung rushed up to see what was wrong. There was the poet with tears streaming down his face.

"I have been punished for my wrongdoings. The time has now come when I must pay for them. But such a terrible punishment to be given to me! Both of my feet have swollen as you can see. It is impossible for me to keep my shoes on my feet. What am I to do?"

The boy took one glance and replied: "You have the right shoe on the left foot. And the left shoe on the right foot. Just change shoes and you will be well again."

A Boy's Mind

Tommy is a rather bright kid. And he likes sports. Yet there are times when you have to wonder: "Just how does the mind of a six year old boy work?" I remember him sitting at the kitchen sink with the faucet wide open. And the water coming into the sink and going down the drain pipe.

"Why are you doing that?" I wanted to know as I looked at his face.

"The teacher told us that the water we drink comes from the reservoir," he replied. "I know that some people fish in the reservoir. So then there are fish in the reservoir. Maybe one will come through the faucet. Then we can have fish for supper?" So you figure that one out. I once took him to a golf driving range. He quietly watched me hit some balls high up. Suddenly a sea gull took a drive.

"You hit the bird," he shouted. "Gee, you didn't mean to, did you?"

But the supreme one happened one evening. We were watching a western serial. Good relaxation and lots of fun. With excitement. The hero always won over the bad man. We were coming to the exciting part. The wagon train was going through the pass. On top of the cliffs could be seen the Indian Chief. Waiting for the train to get inside. So he could trap it and wipe it out. With Tommy was his little friend Burt. Suddenly Tommy shouted to his hero.

"Look out! There's a lot of redskins waiting to kill you all. Look up and you will see them."

And what do you think happened? The hero looked up and saw the Indians. Just in time. And what did little Burt do? He became angry.

"You had no right to warn him. I wanted to see them all killed."

The Good Old Days

Mrs. Henrietta Donaldson had been teaching at P.S. 64 for forty six years. She was sort of regarded as a fixture in the old school.

"She won't retire," sighed the principal. "I have a feeling she will continue teaching until the end of time. If only she didn't complain about any little thing."

On Saturday afternoon she would meet her friends and have tea in the Old Rose Garden. And she would always complain.

"What a week we had at school," she began. "Three armed men held up the bank on the corner. And escaped with more than fifty thousand dollars. There were some shots fired and the bank guard was slightly injured.

Then there was a fire in Mr. Rosen's tailor shop. Fortunately it was soon brought under control. I don't as yet know what happened to that silk dress I gave him to alter. I am gaining weight and he was told to let out the seams.

That old abandoned building opposite the school finally collapsed. With one great boom it went right down to the foundation. And when it was all over, the fire department came to see if anyone had been hurt.

There is a kind of hair trigger alarm in Mr. Walter's watch shop. He keeps closed on Mondays. And it keeps on ringing for three hours until they located him and he came to the shop to turn it off.

I don't know what the world is coming to. Believe me, in the good old days, when Mr. Schuman was my principal—those things could never have happened!"
