So, that's the way it is with David Cassidy and Judy Strangis. Instead of an unhappy young man, worried about success and looking for the lady of his dreams as he has been presented, he has already found her—in his own backyard you might say.

Judy makes no secret of her adoration of David. She showed me her scrapbook with all her publicity pictures. Also, she had large blow-ups of photographs of herself with David at various premieres and openings. They have made no secret of their romance and that they go steady. It's all there in pictures but I've never seen them published anywhere in any article about David. Why are certain people trying to hide it? Whatever or whoever is causing this, it is an untrue image of David Cassidy. No one will ever know the heartbreak it is causing Judy Strangis to read things like "David's serious relationships with girls are yet to come" and "He wants more than anything to have a home of his own with the girl he loves beside him . . . so he's waiting and hoping if and when that special girl comes along he'll be able to make a future for them that's meaningful and secure."

David and Judy have one of the most meaningful romances that I've ever run into in Hollywood. It is Judy's old-fashioned Roman Catholic upbringing, much like the Lennon Sisters', that has kept her feet firmly on the ground. It will be no hasty marriage for them and when it happens it will be in a church with all her relatives in attendance. It will happen, unless of course, all those gloomy stories about David manage to thrust a wedge between them. But one thing is for sure, the kids should have a chance and the story of their love should no longer be kept a secret.

out of her bathrobe under the covers and slid her arms around Holden.

"You know what we talked about this time?" she said after they finished for the umpteenth time. "I tried to get him to stop smoking. My father just died of lung cancer about a week before I began this picture so the sight of anyone I care about smoking sends me into torment. Turns out Bill's father died the same way but he still smokes. I really don't understand it. It's so scary. Bill said he tried to give it up a few years ago but failed miserably when he became a nervous wreck. I guess there's all kinds of ways of looking at it, but for me, since I'm asthmatic anyway, my road is chosen. I can't smoke.
