

RECORD MIRROR

4 001 000 000 000 000

100 000 000 000

STILL ONLY 60

THE Osmonds' Southern' British hit, Clary Murray, has been been banned in South Africa

A spokesman for the Osmonds British label, NDM, said this week that the song was considered to be "drug orientated," although the Osmonds say that the song was written to show their strong feelings about marijuana.

The Osmonds' involvement with an association is to be the theme of a film the boys will make next year. They will stop touring from March and spend six months making the film in America and they will also in the mean time be writing music for the film and performing songs for the soundtrack. At the moment the band are considering two scripts which have been presented to them and will make their decision in the next year, although both scripts are said to be about ecology and the preservation of wildlife.

When the Osmonds go back on the road in September, they will tour Asia too, and as reported last week, plan to visit Boston and Europe in November.

Fabulous full-page colour poster of DAVID BOWIE MADE IN

How DONNY silenced one of his critics PAGE 7

JACKSON 5: MARLON writes specially for you!

000000000

DAVID CASSIDY

THE WHO NEW SINGLE . . . ORDER NOW

RELAY

B/W WASPMAN

T 2094/106