

"I HAVE A DREAM"

What will David be doing in five years' time? That's the question he's been asking himself — and he thinks he has an answer...

"I have an image of myself," he says. "It's like having a dream... I'm living on an island. The sky is blue and the sun is shining. I'm smiling and healthy. I see my skin very brown and leathery, and I'm growing a beard."

"My hair is really long with grey in it."

David has taken the first step towards realising his dream — he's planning to buy a block of land on Hawaii.

"I've been looking at various pieces of property," he says happily, "and while I was there I went riding and water skiing. It was fantastic! Obviously, Hawaii would be a wonderful place to live, 'cos the climate is so good and I could breed horses and swim and all that. Sam — my best buddy — and I are planning to breed horses at our place in Los Angeles."

"What would be really nice about having all that time to myself would be that, for once, I could do what I wanted — not what other people wanted me to do.

"I wouldn't have to worry about checking in somewhere at such and such a time and I wouldn't have to bother about smiling or being here or there!"

"That would be nice," he sighed.

"I think that's the thing I look forward to most of all — just relaxing, away from it all."

But not too far away. David. Okay?
