58 Parker Street, London WC2B 5QB, Fan Club Secretary, Susie Miller

Hello there!

It's terrible, you know, living in the past like this . . . But that's what everybody's been doing here at the office, ever since David flew back to the States.

Wasn't it wonderful that Shirley and Jack managed to be over here for David's Wembley concert?

They were thrilled to be able to fit London in, especially as they'd been hoping for a while to come and see us during their vacation in Europe. It was just specially nice that David happened to be here too!

Talk about coincidence! Out of all the quiet little restaurants in London there are to choose from, what did David do? He bombed along to precisely the same place when he ate out one night! It must be a family secret . . . So I think we'd better keep it that way. Still you can imagine how delighted the manager was to be able to welcome Shirley and Jack on the Saturday evening, and then to have our very own David there on the next Tuesday!

Just imagine cooking a meal for David! Mind you, it's lucky I didn't have to . . . I'd be so nervous that it would be sure to come out awful! Knowing me, I'd be in so much of a tizz that I'd try seasoning a pinch of steak with a half pound of pepper!

Still, if the chef was a David Cassidy fan, he was certainly too professional to let nerves spoil the meal, because David loved every succulent mouthful. I suppose you could call him a 'regular' . . . 'Cos he went for dinner there on his one free night last trip, too! Careful, David . . . It's getting to be a habit!

But there were other things, too, that David was determined to do in Britain. One was to go horse-riding . . . Now, you must know already how keen David is on riding and he reckoned that it would really be something special if he could fit in a ride while he was over here, 'cos he's always been impressed by English horses.

The only trouble was that he'd been so busy getting his act together before leaving the States and then, of course, he'd been in Europe . . . So he hadn't ridden for quite a while. He didn't think about that, though, in the excitement of getting back into the saddle . . .

At least, he didn't think about it that day! The next morning he had a tough job to think about anything else, he was so sore! But that's where having a good manager comes in!!

Ruth Aarons was there, as soon as she got news, and — after a good back massage from her — David was all set for his next concert!

I must just remind you of the changes in Fan Club subs, due to that Very Annoying Tax (V.A.T. for short!!). Even though we've actually reduced the basic annual sub to 70p, it still builds up to 86p once you've added 8p for postage and packing and the Government have added their little VAT bit!

All you have to do to join the Official David Cassidy and Partridge Family Fan Club is to send a cheque or postal order for 86p (made out to The David Cassidy Fan Club) to the following address. Suzie Miller; The Official David Cassidy Fan Club, 58 Parker St., London, WC2B 5QB.
