

BRAVO demands on behalf of its readers:

Clear the screen for David Cassidy!

Write to television so that the next 13 episodes of the "Partridge Family" are finally broadcast

They are the favorites of young TV viewers: the six of the Partridge family with their "star" David Cassidy

Is television trying to pull the wool over the eyes of David Cassidy fans? For months, 13 new episodes of the "Partridge Family" series have been stewing in the archives of NDR Werbefunk in Hamburg. Meanwhile, readers of BRAVO have been writing their fingers to the bone. It's always the same question: When will David Cassidy finally appear on the screen again? BRAVO asked NDR several times. At first they said: "Start probably in November 1973, but November never came. The explanation from Hamburg was that some difficulties had arisen. But the new episodes will definitely come in April 1974. If you call again in January, we'll give you the exact dates."

We called in January. But the TV station had bad news again: Unfortunately," they said this time," the new episodes could not yet be dubbed. But that will definitely happen in the summer." BRAVO finds it incomprehensible that so much time is being taken with a series that has been such a success! To finally spur those responsible into action, BRAVO asks the Cassidy fans among you: Write to NDR and ask kindly but forcefully for the series to be included in the program quickly. The address: NDR-Werbefernsehen, 2 Hamburg 13, Rothenbaumchaussee 132. We know from experience that an avalanche of letters from TV viewers is the quickest way to "soften up" the TV people. The best example: The fact that the "13 Partridge" episodes in question were bought at all is largely due to the letters of protest from thousands of BRAVO readers. Television had already wanted to let the series go to sleep a year ago. Only when it realized how great the interest of young viewers was did it procure "supplies" from the USA!
