

DAVID CASSIDY'S SWEDISH GIRLFRIEND-LIE, IT'S JUST A SCAM

Great sorrow and misery. Some time ago it was reported in anything of the daily newspapers that our dear David had a girlfriend and was married somewhere here in Sweden. This of course resulted in thousands of fans and admirers getting very angry and painting black crosses over the pictures of the beautiful man at home on the wall above the bed. But it all turned out to be a load of rubbish. GO has received a letter from someone who claims to know all about it, and we reproduce it here verbatim “Calm down girls. Calm down. David Cassidy is still a free man. What was written in a newspaper a while ago that he has a Swedish girlfriend is a big bluff. It was an example of how to make an extra buck the easy way. I was with the big idol and his band from Stockholm down to Gothenburg and neither the band. David or I saw anything of a girl called Madelene von Rosen, who was supposed to be David's girlfriend. Because that girl only saw David at Gröna Lund, but so did 8,000 other girls. Nope, there was no girlfriend for David. And then a little thing about David himself. He is not at all as sweet and kind as some newspapers try to make him out to be. He's actually the most spoiled person I've ever met. But who wouldn't be if you earned 5 million a year? He's still my biggest idol, but now only for his music. So hang in there, you might still have a chance with David.

Someone who knows the ropes. Also called “Ninna”

So much for that story. We just hope that our friend Ninna doesn't get her head handed to her for calling David spoiled.

Still a free man
