

David's Stars

Top Pic David's constellation is Aries. Its characteristics: He is ambitious, critical, athletic and impulsive

Is David Cassidy calling it a day, or is his career heading for a new high? Which of the many rumors will turn out to be true, and which will burst like soap bubbles? BRAVO asked a well-known astrologer to take a look into David's future. If you pick up this Cassidy horoscope, you can find out what happened at the end of 1975. You will then know whether you can believe the stars...

One thing is certain: Aries David Cassidy can put his fans through a lot without losing their favour. The fact that he had his hair cut short is due to his tendency to make sudden decisions. They stem from his whims, because the sign of Aries was rising in New York's eastern sky at 10 a.m. on April 12, 1950, when David was born. Thus the moon, symbol of all change, is David's natural ruler. At that time it was in Pisces, very close to the lucky planet Jupiter and the love star Venus. David can therefore rely on his luck and also on the fact that people will not hold his escapades against him. It is also a constellation that gives him a soft heart. David has the Sun in the fire sign Mars, hence his temperament. When he can charge ahead, get to grips with things and change situations quickly, he is in his element when he can charge forward, grab hold and change situations quickly. But for this he needs a lot of warmth, love, stroking and tenderness. Deep down, he is soft and vulnerable. Since December 74, he has been on the move again, wanting to turn everything upside down and make a new start, even if it affects his entire fate. Just not to stay on the beaten track. In March, this becomes very clear once again, but in October, calm returns. David is mistaken if he thinks he can neglect foreign countries now. It is precisely there that he has his most loyal fans. A big professional success at the beginning of the year will go to his head, and as he will also be prone to hot flirtation, he will neglect important plans. This brings him a little. Misfortune. His desire for major changes in March may be due to the fact that he feels uncomfortable in his surroundings. He then wants to throw everything away, but will not let his pessimism show. But David Cassidy will certainly find the big heartbreak in 1975.

However, David Cassidy is sure to find the great experience of his heart in 1975. In the first half of July and again in the last third of September, David has the kind of favourable constellations for success that only come along once every eleven years. You can then bet with a high degree of probability that he will make his personal fortune. Things run much more smoothly for David in the summer. He is even more open-minded and accustomed to success than usual, cashes in more than usual and loves more and more deeply than before. It goes without saying that he is also in particularly good health and by no means as serious as he sometimes pretends to be. The escapades he has indulged in so far, which have occasionally been rumoured, are then forgotten. Very important: David finds his true form in the summer of 1975. It's obvious that he won't forget about business - Mercury, the planet of reason and business, is in the best aspect conjunctions in his horoscope. Therefore, in the summer David will also reflect on where he had his greatest successes. He will pick up where he left off. He should not go on tour in May and November as he will show weaknesses and let himself go too much. Overall, however, David has a mostly good time ahead of him until October. Later, however, a cold wind blows in his face. The year that begins so promisingly for him, bringing many pleasures that also make him reckless, ends less well.

He is even more open-minded and the year that begins so promisingly for him, bringing many pleasures that also make him reckless, ends less well. Unfavourable experiences on trips in October and December lie ahead. Then David will once again give rise to rumours that he wants to retire. This time it could be more serious.

And so the year 1975 really began for David

The New Year also meant a new career start for David. And so the year 1975 really began for David. The new year also meant a new professional beginning for David: a few days ago, he signed a new recording contract with RCA. "It's a wonderful feeling," he told BRAVO on the phone, "as if I were starting all over again." David has written many new songs in the meantime. He will soon be producing his first LP for the new company. He doesn't know exactly where yet. "Not in America anyway," he said "but either in Germany, England or France. I can hardly wait to make music again!"

David is also currently writing an honest book about his time as a teen star. Of course he will also write about BRAVO and BRAVO readers. When it's finished, he has promised that BRAVO will be the first to read it. And last but not least, news that will please many Cassidy fans: David's hair is growing and growing! In a few weeks it will be almost the same length again. And of course BRAVO will immediately introduce you to the new "old" David in a photo.
