

David's "Casablanca" Birthday!

Do you believe you should never trust anyone over 30? Think again, because David Cassidy turned 30 last April 12th! And to mark this important milestone, his family threw him a huge birthday party in the style of the movie "Casablanca"!

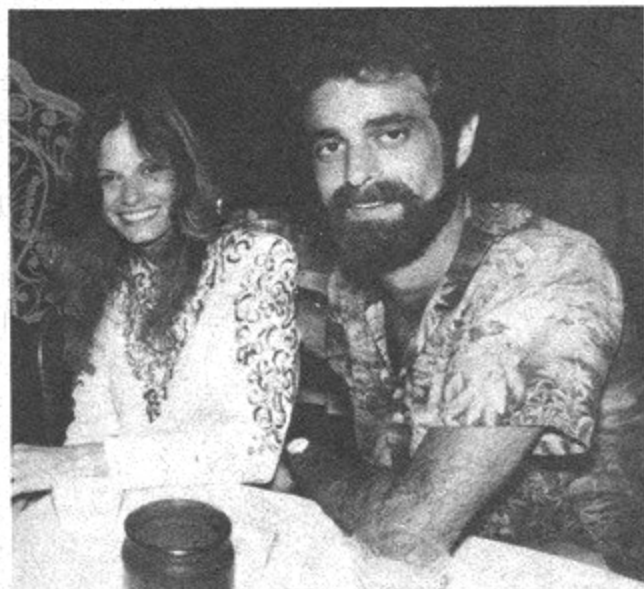

UNDER photographs of his favorites, Humphrey Bogart and Ingrid Bergman, who starred in "Casablanca," David entertained his friends.

GUESTS dressed in 1940's fashions like Patrick Cassidy's leather and hat. White was one of the '40's most-popular colors. David waltzed step-mom Shirley Jones around the room!

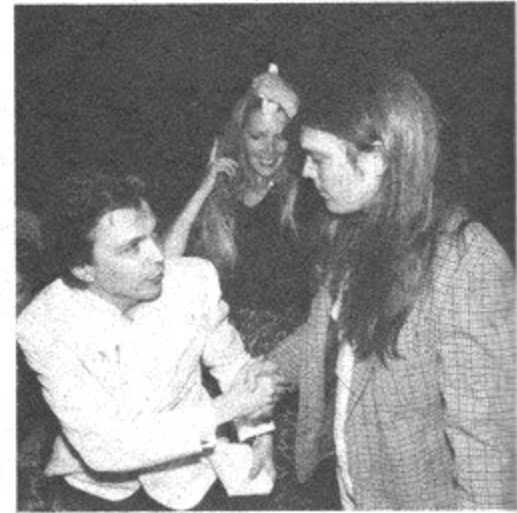

GAMBLING? Well, everyone had to follow things from the movie! Shaun played a game of 21 with wife Ann helping over his shoulder! The party was a real surprise for David, who says "Casablanca" is his all-time favorite film.

DAVID's friend Sam Hyman, whom he's known since childhood, is great friends with David's wife, Kay Lenz, too. "I can't believe he's 30!" says Sam.

PATRICK and David get silly—and so did everyone there. Kay planned the whole party!

STEVE "Cookie" Ross played guitar backup for David's tours in the early 1970's. They're very good friends.
