

Bobby Sherman and David Cassidy
... in scene from 'The Partridge Family'

6 11 The Partridge Family rounds up two hot teen favorites when Bobby Sherman joins David Cassidy in a funny script. This is a pilot for Sherman and Wes Stern, who plays a totally nutty, delightful character named Lionel Poindexter. (Stern was an actor's agent, trying to get a job for a client but got one for himself instead.) Anyway, Sherman plays a composer and Stern is a genius who writes poems on walls, ice cream wrappers — anything. The trick is to get them to work together. The song of the night is "Stephanie," and each of the young stars gets a chance to sing it.
