David Cassidy, touring Europe solo, set his luggage down in London long enough to make a phone call and turned around to find it missing. I hope he had his passport in his pocket.