

Those Who Like Sen. Percy's Style Include The New Jersey Master Hairdressers' Group

Our man in Atlantic City points out that the New Jersey Master Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association has just singled out U. S. Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois for an unprecedented recognition.

Acknowledging the growing male patronage of hair stylists, the association for the first time rated men's coiffures. Percy was the only member of Congress or the Senate adjudged to sport an attractive head of hair.

Two other politicians named as winners were New York City Mayor John Lindsay and New Jersey State Senator Joseph McGahn. They join such other honored individuals as television's David Cassidy, Dick Cavett, Burt Reynolds and Dan Rather, actor Ryan O'Neil, golfer Arnold Palmer and band leader Doc Severinson.

If Senator Percy's hair is styled—and his staff purports not to know—at least it is done so naturally that it does not proclaim itself like the hairdos of some of his colleagues, notably Senator John V. Tunney of California. Nor, we might add, like that of his late fellow senator, Everett Dirksen.
