

● David Cassidy, who returned to the United States last year after having spent several years in London, says he hopes to do a TV series again. He hated his stint as the teenybopper idol of "The Partridge Family" — but that was way back in the early 1970s when he was in his young 20s. Now he says, "I'm kind of being looked on as a fresh face." Television viewers will see him next sometime in April playing the game show "Win, Lose or Draw."